Unanimous vote by panel favors Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Rules Committee voted unanimously today to recommend the approval of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

The 9 to 0 vote sends the nomination to the Senate floor. The full senate is expected to vote after Congress returns from its brief Thanksgiving recess.

The Rules Committee decision came after eight weeks of investigation and hearings into the finances and public and private record of the former New York

The decision became unanimous when

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., joined the majority to vote for Rockefeller.

Allen had said earlier he had not made up his mind how he would vote because he disapproved of Rockefeller's "big government, tax and spend philosophy.'

Allen said that from Rockefeller's responses at the hearings he believes Rockefeller has moved philosophically to-hostage on the hijacked plane.'

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) - Three Arab guerrillas holding 47 persons on a hijacked British jetliner in Tunis threatened to execute one passenger every two hours today unless 13 comrades jailed in Khartoum and Rome are freed, two newsmen allowed aboard reported.

But a Palestinian splinter group in Beirut identifying itself as the hijackers' command said its men sought the release of two comrades jailed in Holland, and unless it got them every Dutch, Belgian and Luxembourg hostage aboard the plane would be killed.

There was no immediate explanation for the difference between the demands. In Rome, officials said there were no Palestinian terrorists held in Italian jails. But five guerrillas charged with plotting to blow up an Israeli jetliner in Rome in September 1973 were later freed from Italian jails and flown to Cairo.

Eight other guerrillas convicted in Khartoum, Sudan, of killing two U.S. diplomats and a Belgian envoy last year, were also later flown to Cairo. Reports conflict on whether the eight from Khartoum and the five from Rome are in prison, or merely under house arrest awaiting transfer to another Arab country.

The hijacking was attacked by the main Palestinian group, the Palestine Liberation Organization, which called it "a desperate attempt to defame the struggle of the Palestinian people and their armed revolution."

Three Palestinians seized the plane in the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai late Thursday, then forced it to fly to Tripoli, Libya where it refueled. From Tripoli they diverted the flight to Tunis.

A stewardess and a porter were wounded when the hijacking began in Dubai, and there were reports two other persons were wounded during the flight from Tripoli to Tunis.

The hijackers' command, in Beirut, Lebanon, said, "We want our comrades Adnan Ahmad Nuri and Houssin Tamimah freed at once by the Dutch

Defendants may see some charges dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica indicated today he may dismiss charges accusing Watergate cover-up trial defendants John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell of lying to FBI agents.

Ehrlichman and Mitchell also are charged with conspiracy and with obstruction of justice.

As the prosecution neared the end of its case, Sirica said he did not believe the government had made its case on the charges that Ehrlichman and Mitchell lied to the FBI.

"I think it's very weak," said Sirica, adding that he would have a hearing on the issue Monday.

Associate Special Prosecutor James F. Neal agreed with Sirica, saying "I recognize that the proof on that is not overwhelming ... is not all that strong.'

Rockefeller's nomination also appears certain to win a solid recommendation from the House Judiciary Committee, despite some concern about his vast wealth.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said at House Judiciary Committee hearings Thursday he sees a pattern in Rockefeller's loans, gifts and political and charitable contributions to use money to "enhance your political power."

Waldie sparked the only show of anger from Rockefeller when he suggested the committee investigate whether Chase Manhattan Bank, headed by Nelson's brother, David Rockefeller, made loans to New York assemblymen when Nelson was

"I resent that question," Rockefeller said. "We don't operate that way. The bank is not used on a political basis.

Waldie, joined by several other members, said the Rockefeller family's wealth and $20 million in political campaign contributions required the committee to investigate the entire family's holdings and not only Nelson's.

Other members said they were concerned whether it would be possible to avoid conflicts of interest by wedding Rockefeller's immense wealth with his power if he became president.

Rockefeller told the panel he would treat as blind trusts those trusts with assets of some $131 million if he is confirmed. Rockefeller and members of his family are beneficiaries of those trusts. Death toll stands at 19

Terrorist bombs kill

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) - Home Secretary Roy Jenkins today pledged an all-out campaign against Irish terrorists after bombs killed 19 persons and fanned anti-Irish feeling in this second largest English city.

The bomb explosions in two crowded bars Thursday night also injured 184.

In London Jenkins told the House of Commons that emergency laws may soon be introduced to combat terrorism in Britain, but he gave no details. He said he will make a further statement to Parlia ment Monday.

'There is no question of us submitting to a victory for terrorism and we are determined to demonstrate the will to win," declared Jenkins, who represents a Birmingham district in Parliament

Countering fears that the Birmingham bombings could trigger a wave of vengeance attacks against Britain's Irish communities, Jenkins appealed to Britons to keep their tempers.

If they take the law into their own hands, he warned, "the damage will be still greater and the victory for extremists and terrorists would be greater.

The public blamed the Irish Republican Army, whose bombs have killed at least 30 other persons in England in the past two years. The death toll was the heaviest in any bombing in England or Northern Ireland since the war between Roman Catholic and Protestant extremists began in Ulster five years ago.

Gangs of youths took to the streets of Birmingham, shouting "Irish bastards" and "We hate the Irish!" A gasoline bomb was thrown through the window of a Catholic priest's house.

Mayor James Eames said the terrorist attack would undoubtedly build up hate and prejudice against Birmingham's sizeable Irish population.

"The Irish war has finally come to England," said John Stokes, a Conservative member of the House of Commons. He called for the death penalty

"for the perpetrators of these appalling crimes.'

There was speculation that the bombings were in response to the government's refusal to allow funeral services in Birmingham for James McDaid, a 28-year-old IRA officer killed in Coventry last week when a bomb he was setting exploded prematurely. His body was brought to Birmingham Thursday and flown to Dublin.

The Birmingham Post said it received a telephone warning at 8:11 p.m. that bombs had been planted in the city. About 15 minutes later — between 8:20 and 8:30 explosions devastated the crowded Mulberry Bush pub and the nearby Tavern in the Town, located in the Rotunda, a shopping and office center in the heart of Birmingham.

"In my many years of experience I have never seen anything like this," said a surgeon at one of three hospitals to which victims were taken. "We have got here every injury in the book.

'Attention center' concept forwarded

Preliminary plans for a proposed local 'juvenile attention center" were presented by assistant school superintendent Earl Finley at a meeting Thursday night of the Sedalia Team on Drug Abuse in the Municipal Building.

In a statement distributed at the meeting, attended by some 25 persons, Finley said such a service is necessary to prevent juvenile first-offenders from being imprisoned with hardened criminals and to minimize cases of probation violations. Such a center, he said, would provide competent psychological and psychiatric evaluations, proper supervision and good physical care in a conducive atmosphere. The interaction of youths with center staff members and with their own families would be encouraged, he added. Youths would live at the center on a 24-hour basis and would be supervised by a trained husband-wife team, explained Finley, who is chairman of the drug abuse

He indicated that Prosecuting Attorney

Gary Fleming, also a member of the team, is currently investigating possible sources of governmental funding for the structure. Finley said he would officially propose establishing such a center at the next team meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Municipal Building. In other business, a delegation from the

New Hope Baptist Church presented a list of recommendations to the group. The suggestions included a series of newspaper articles informing citizens on the dangers of drug abuse and establishing a juvenile panel to provide a forum for youths desiring to speak out on the drug

The group also suggested efforts be taken to determine the actual extent of drug abuse in the community. The distribution of information on drugs to parents was also encouraged. Such information, the group said, would enable parents to detect evidence of possible drug

Explanation by Bell is criticized

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - A consultant to a legislative study group on utility regulations has called Southwestern Bell's defense of its Texas rate setting system "a bunch of fog."

Jack Hopper of Austin, an independent rate consultant, said "they (Bell) provide misleading figures to city councils. They provide distorted figures.

Southwestern Bell, in a statement by president Zane Barnes of St. Louis, denied that the company kept two sets of books in order to inflate its revenue needs and obtain favorable decisions from city councils throughout the state. Texas does not have a state utility commission.

Barnes issued the statement Thursday amidst allegations made in a $29 million suit filed against the company by the family of late Bell general manager for Texas T. O. Gravitt and by James Ashley, a dismissed company executive.

The family claims that Gravitt was hounded by the company until he go along with allegedly illegal corporatepolitical entanglements and deceitful ratesetting practices. Gravitt killed himself at his Dallas home on Oct. 17.

He left at least one suicide note in which he referred to Bell's alleged unlawful In another development, it was learned

Thursday that two tape recordings exist in which Bell officials talk about political

Legal sources said the tapes will be presented to the court by attorneys for the Gravitt family.

In its rate defense statement Barnes said that "in Texas our rate applications are filed in accordance with state laws that provide a fair value basis for rate

But Hopper said "there are no state laws that tell how rate making shall be done and there is no definition in the statute of fair value. There is one in court decisions, but none in statutes.'

Hopper said it is Bell who in reality decides what fair value of its investments are and cities have to accept them.

"The Uniform System of Accounts is an accounting procedure under which reports are made to the FCC ... but there is no system of accounts for Texas or for any city I know of, except maybe Houston or Dallas," he said.

"The company only reports what they want to report to city councils," Hopper added. "Any of this noise about 'we're in compliance with the law or we keep books in accordance with the FCC' is meaning-

U.S., Israel face prospect of defeat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and Israel faced another defeat at the United Nations today on a vote endorsing the Palestinians' claim to nationhood at the expense of Israel.

A resolution on Palestinian rights introduced Thursday night by 38 Arab and Third World countries was assured of approval in the vote late today in the General Assembly

The resolution affirms the Palestinians' rights to self-determination. independence and sovereignty. It also affirms their right "to return to their homes and property from which they have been displaced and uprooted" by the formation of Israel.

In addition, it recognizes the Palestine Liberation Organization as the "representative of the people of Palestine" and declares the Palestinians "a principal party in the establishment of a just and durable peace in the Middle

This was a direct hit at Israel's refusal to negotiate with the PLO.

A second resolution introduced by 20 Arab and six other countries would grant the PLO permanent observer status at the international conferences.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali spoke in the Palestine debate Thursday and urged that Palestinian "legitimate interests" be achieved in the give and take of the negotiating process.

Officer's speeding charge is dropped

A speeding charge against Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin, 506 South New York, was dismissed in Municipal Court Friday

Franklin was accused by Richard Brummet, 19, 1701 South Harrison, of speeding Nov. 8 in the 2300 block of South New York while driving a police car.

Brummet admitted in court Friday that he did not pace Franklin to check the officer's speed.

Judge Jack Cunningham said that a police officer has to either pace a speeding suspect or use radar to determine a speeding violation and since Brummet did neither, the judge dismissed the charge.

Vandalism results in loss of fuel

Fred Waelder, operations manager of the company from Ft. Smith, Ark., said transmission valves were closed during the night and that one valve was sawed off, cutting off all gas to this community of about 5,000 persons.

All four schools in the city system were closed because buildings were cold early today and there was no way to prepare lunches for students.

Also involved is one hospital, the Sequoyah Memorial Hospital, and several

The company said it has about 1,800 customers in Sallisaw, all of whom are having to have appliances and outlets turned off, then turned back on separately when service is restored.

The strike followed rejection by the union of a company contract proposal, Waelder said. He said the principal issues are money.

The strike has about 103 persons off the job and the company offices here and at Ft. Smith are being picketed. 'Due to vandalism on our transmission system serving Sallisaw, there is no gas service at this time," a company statement said.

"Gas company employes are working now to shut off all gas meters. Arkansas-Oklahoma Gas Corp. regrets that (customers) will be inconvenienced while gas service is unavoidably interrupted. Service will be resumed as soon as possible." it added.

The statement also said that "due to the limited amount of supervisory personnel, several days may be required to restore service.

'However, if the union considers the welfare of the citizens, service may be restored within 24 hours."

KANSAS CITY (AP)-Missouri members of Congress and civic leaders in the Kansas City area already have started a campaign against the loss of about 2,338 of the 4,900 jobs at Richards-Gebaur Air

Maj. Gen. Frank H. Spink, Jr., chairman of the military affairs committee of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, said Richards-Gebaur is the sixth-largest industry in the area.

"The announcement is analagous to a statement by Trans World Airlines or Hallmark that they were moving half their staffs out of here," Gen. Spink said.

Rep. William J. Randall, the Democratic congressman whose district takes in the big air base at the south edge of Kansas City, said at least the situation is not as bad as where facilities are being

"I have fought a reduction of this type at Richards-Gebaur for years, and I will fight to restore each of the jobs eliminated by

The move that hits Richards-Gebaur so hard is deactivation of the Air Force Communications Service headquarters and transfer of its functions to the Military Airlift Command headquarters at Scott Air Force base near Belleville, Ill., on the fringe of the St. Louis metropolitan area.

This means the transfer of 1,200 military jobs and 750 civilian jobs away from Richards-Gebaur. There will be no refilling of another 400 jobs as they become vacant because of retirements, resignations and the completion of enlistments.

Capt. Bryan Schaible, public information officer at the air base, estimated it contributes $75 million a year to the area's economy. This is made up of $38 million in payroll, $15 million in purchases, $19 million for operation and maintenance, $1 million for construction and $2 million in travel payments.

The main unit still left at Richards-Gebaur will be the 442nd Tactical Airlift Wing, and Air Force Reserve unit.

Congressional probe of FBI is underway sending its own investigators into the FBI's secret files for the first time in history to appraise the effectiveness and legality of FBI operations.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has agreed to the probe by the General Accounting Office, officials of both agencies said Thursday.

The audit was requested by the House Judiciary Committee and will focus first on the most controversial of all FBI activities, domestic spying.

The investigation will begin after the GAO concludes negotiations over the ground rules with the FBI, according to Richard Fogel, the GAO audit manager for the probe. "Things are progressing satisfactorily" and those ground rules should be settled early next week, Fogel said in an interview. Late 1975 is the target for delivering the final report to Congress.

Fogel and FBI spokesman George Quinn said the negotiations primarily concern the procedure for allowing GAO auditors cess to confidential information in domestic intelligence files.

The FBI already has agreed to make the information available in some manner designed to insure confidentiality, Quinn and Fogel said. That step is a remarkable departure from the FBI's traditional insistence on secrecy, particularly during the 48 years it was ruled by the late J. Edgar Hoover.

"It is a change. One obvious reason is because Mr. Hoover is not there." Fogel

'We realize this is a very sensitive area," he continued. "We don't in any way want to inhibit the effectiveness of the bureau as an investigative agency. Although the GAO routinely audits the practices of most other executive agencies. it hesitated to tackle the FBI until a congressional committee specifically requested it. None had until the House Judiciary Committee did last June.

"This is the first time we've really been involved with a substantive program over there," Fogel said. About seven years ago, he added, GAO auditors took their only

Grand jury preparing indictments

The Pettis County grand jury is believed to have given its list of indictments to Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Thursday. Friday morning grand jury for a second man indictment forms were still being processed in his office.

Thursday the grand jury was still working at 11:15 p.m., and Fleming said he worked until about 2 a.m. Friday.

The grand jury's report now is not expected to be given to Circuit Judge Frank Meyer until Saturday morning. Earlier reports were the jury would submit the report at 4 p.m. Friday.

Friday morning five new subpoenas were in the Pettis County grand jury file. bringing the number to 50.

Two of the subpoenas were made out for Bennett Cash, or any officer of Musical Productions Inc., to appear at 10 a.m. Friday. The first subpoena called for Cash to bring all copies of contracts, agreements and letters with Damon Zumwalt and Contemporary Security Co. for security at the Ozark Music Festival.

The second subpoena ordered Cash to bring all copies of all payroll records, all applications of employment forms, all federal and state employe withholding forms, and all waivers of all employes of Musical Production Inc., who were employed in the capacity of security officers at the festival.

Cash, treasurer of MPI, has been at the grand jury sessions before under subpoena on Oct. 9 and Nov. 12. He also appeared on Oct. 30 at the request of the jury

Cash was seen leaving the courthouse about 10:30 a.m. Friday

The third subpoena was for Ralph Pusey, or any agent of Baker Protection Service doing business as Wells Fargo Guard Service. He was ordered to be at the jury room at 10 a.m. Friday and bring all payroll records and applications for employment of all employes of the Baker Protection Service. James Knothe, 1906 South Osage, was also subpoenaed and was supposed to be present at 10 a.m. Friday, but was not seen in the jury room or the court house.

The fifth subpoena was for Walter D. Bell, address not given. He was supposed to have been at the jury session at 1:30 p.m. on Nov. 20, but was not seen on that date.

Police patrols discontinued

There have been no regular police patrols in the vicinity of Smith-Cotton High School in the last three weeks, despite requests by school officials that they be done, The Democrat-Capital has learned.

"Basically, they've been dropped," said Smith-Cotton Principal Kem Keithly in reference to the patrols Surveillance of the high school campus during specific times was officially requested by Dr. Allen Henningsen. superintendent of schools, in a letter to Mayor Jerry Jones on Oct. 30.

Henningsen wrote: "We believe the presence of (police) officers will be a strong deterrent to illegal or nefarious activities that are beyond the school officials' jurisdiction.'

School authorities specifically requested that a police car be stationed near the school or patrol around it during the halfhour before school starts in the morning. during the 90-minute lunch period and for a half-hour after school dismisses.

Henningsen said police assistance was sought to discourage non-students who hang around the campus from causing trouble. Such individuals have also been suspected of dealing in drugs at the high

Regular police patrols reportedly were instituted by then-acting Chief Charles Knapp for a brief period following an incident at the high school on Oct. 18 when a 14-year-old boy was beaten by a 20-yearold non-student, reportedly over a report that the younger boy had provided school officials with the names of drug users. which was denied. Several school officials were involved in subduing the older youth. who was given a 90-day jail sentence and fined.

The regular patrols were apparently dropped as soon as Police Chief William Miller was reinstated following a City Council hearing in to his suspension early this month.

School officials say they were informed by Miller that the police department lacks the manpower to provide regular surveillance during the times requested.

The chief told school administrators that cars would patrol the area at the requested times only if they were not otherwise assigned. This has resulted in only sporadic patrols, school officials maintain. Mayor Jerry Jones said Thursday that he was under the impression the patrols were being conducted. In his reply to Henningsen on Oct. 31, Jones stated he agreed that patrols "were mandatory" and a "deterrent to improper activities."

City spends $5,809.30 for hearing

A total of $5,809.30 in legal fees was paid by the city to local attorneys William Brown and Robert Liston for their work in the recent investigation of the police department and the subsequent public hearing for Police Chief William Miller

On the basis of evidence uncovered by Liston and Brown, Miller was suspended Oct. 9 by Mayor Jerry Jones on 10 counts of misconduct in office. One of the charges was later dismissed. Following the hearing, Miller was acquitted by a 7-1 vote of the remaining nine charges.

Figures obtained from City Clerk Ralp Dedrick revealed that Liston was paid $15 an hour for 1521/2-hours work for a total of $2,287.50. Brown was paid a total of $3,521.80, which reflected 70 hours of pre-hearing counseling at a rate of $30 an hour. and $1,400 for preparation and services rendered during the hearing held Oct. 29 to Nov. 1. The investigation spanned several months. In addition, Brown was paid $21.80 for 50 photo copies of documents.

Liston, who is city attorney, received six monthly payments distributed over a period from May 31 to Oct. 31. Brown submitted his bill in a lump sum statement for which payment was approved by the City Council Monday night.

The funds for paying the two attorneys came from the city general revenue fund, Dedrick said.

Court reporter James Giokaris has submitted a statement to City Counselor Robert Fritz for his services. Fritz, however, declined to reveal the amount of the bill until he presents it to the City Council at it's next meeting for approval. He did say, however, that "it was several hundred

Commenting on the Nov. 5 elections, Kirkpatrick said the overwhelming Democratic victories "were a reaction to Watergate and wrong-doings by Republicans."

a 38.9 per cent turnout of eligible voters. "You here in Pettis County did better than the rest of the voters," he added. "You ran well ahead of the state average. Some two-thirds of the registered voters in this county — about 67 per cent — went to the polls."

Kirkpatrick touched on the 1976 elections

by asking local Democrats to support a series of "Spirit of '76" dinners sponsored to build enthusiasm and raise money for the Democratic 1976 campaign. He indicated that Senate President Pro Tem William Cason, State Treasurer James Spainhower, and Jack Schramm, a former St. Louis representative, were among those being considered as Democratic gubernatorial candidates in 1976. "The 1976 election is less than two years away ... if ever a party should have learned a lesson, the Democratic Party in Missouri should now realize that waiting until the last minute to start a political campaign can mean defeat." Kirkpatrick

He urged local Democrats to "do everything possible to make the Democratic Party a strong, unified and effective force in the 1976 elections."

Broadcast of tape questioned

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Although a House subcommittee has approved a Senate bill which in part requires public access to Watergate-related White House tapes, it's uncertain if this includes broadcasting of the tapes.

'Frankly, this was a matter that just didn't come up," says Rep. John Brademus, D-Ind. chairman of a House Administration subcommittee which approved the measure this week.

The bill is intended to nullify a Sept. 6 agreement between former President Richard M. Nixon and the government concerming control by Nixon of his presidential tapes and papers.

It specifically requires access to provide the public "the full truth, at the earliest reasonable date, of the abuses of governmental power popularly identified under the generic term Watergate.

But it doesn't spell out what public access means, although Brademus has said in a statement it would open Nixon's tapes and papers to "examination by scholars, journalists and the public. The congressman, asked later by phone if this means broadcast journalists could record the tapes for airing on radio and TV, said no one even had posed that question of him until

"The bill provides that regulations (on access to the tapes and papers) be made by the General Services Administration, subject to congressional veto," he said.

"In my view, it wouldn't be wise to try to spell out every regulation in the bill. But I think its language is broad enough to allow the GSA to propose regulations that would permit the broadcasting of the

Brademus, who said the measure would be considered next week by the full House Administration Committee, said he would have no objections to allowing the broadcast of the Watergate tapes

Ulcerative colitis cause unknown.

Dear Dr. Lamb - I'm 37. For about six years I've had a severe case of ulcerative colitis. Seldom do I see any articles about it, and I find most people don't know what it is or anything about it.

A few weeks ago when I was released from the hospital, my doctor, the leading internist in this area, suggested an operation. This involves all small intestine.

Some of my latest spells have been more emotional and I've had vomiting. Others have suggested I try having either allergy tests made or admitting myself to the state mental hospital for help before I go through the operation. What would you suggest?

Dear Reader - I wish there were a good answer. The cause of ulcerative colitis is not known. And, we know just about as much about its treatment.

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon. It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is common with it.

Dear Ann Landers: After a long, hard day at the hospital (I am chief of surgery), I picked up the paper and turned to your column. I read the letter from the woman whose brother committed suicide after he had run over a child who was playing in the street.

I can't count the times I've been called to the emergency room to face sobbing parents whose child was playing in the street. May I pose a question to every parent who is reading this letter: "Do you want your child to live to adulthood?" Not one will say, "No." But I warn you, the next time you allow your child to play in the street or take his trike out to ride it wherever he pleases, it might be the last time you will see him alive. Dear M.D.: Neither of us will ever know how many little lives you saved today. I hope it will help to make up for the ones you've lost on the table.

Water is contracted.

Water is certainly not our only source of minerals. The mineral content in water varies from area to area. One locality might have water with a high calcium content and be low in phosphorous. Drinking a glass of milk would supply both.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I'm 37. For about six years I've had a severe case of ulcerative colitis. Seldom do I see any articles about it, and I find most people don't know what it is or anything about it.

A few weeks ago when I was released from the hospital, my doctor, the leading internist in this area, suggested an operation. This involves all of my colon and part of my small intestine.

My former doctor cautioned me continually about cancer. is trying to reject the lining of Some of my latest spells have been more emotional and I've had vomiting. Others have suggested I try having either allergy tests made or admitting myself to the state mental hospital for help before I go through the operation. What would you suggest?

Dear Reader - I wish there were a good answer. The cause of ulcerative colitis is not known. And, we know just about as much about its

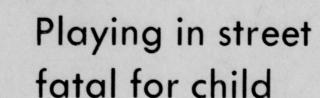

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon.

It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is common with it.

Milk and milk products seem cause attacks in some patients. At one time it was believed that an allergic reaction to milk might be the cause. In any case I believe any one with this problem should avoid milk and milk products and goods made with lots of milk, like milk gravy and Some cases seem to be started off with a diarrhea infectious illness. In some ways the disease acts like the

Water is certainly not our only source of minerals. The mineral content in water varies from area to area. One locality might have water with a high calcium content and be low in phosphorous. Drinking a glass of milk would supply both.

Political disruption not role for FBI

WASHINGTON — So you've got Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley in sharp disagreement over those dirty tricks and tactics of disruption that the FBI employed for 15

Now, do you believe

Saxbe, who endorses a Justice Department report that says these FBI operations "can only be considered abhorrent in a free society?"

Or do you accept Kelley's argument that if the FBI had not used disruptive tactics on "violence-prone groups" it would have abdicated the FBI's "responsibilities to the American people?"

Before you make up your mind, let me make it clear what you are deciding on by posing a few questions:

Do you think that the head of the FBI should have authority to determine which groups of Americans are too dissident, or too activist, or so violenceprone that the FBI is justified in using dirty tricks to try to destroy them?

or should the FBI's mandate be limited to infiltration and the employment of constitutional techniques of gaining information about violations of law so as to enhance the prosecution of law breakers?

Should the director of the FBI be free to send agents out to whisper to virtually every newspaper editor in the land derogatory gossip and innuendo about the sexual life of a noted civil rights leader - as J. Edgar Hoover did in the case of Martin Luther King?

Is it a proper FBI function for agents to mail to the wife of a man the FBI director despises a tape recording suggesting that the man has a sexual affair going with another woamn? Should this tape be used this way primarily because agents close to the FBI director hope that sending it to the wife will activate the hated man's "tendency toward suicide?" This was done under Hoover.

Should the FBI be in the business of planting false information with an employer so as to cause a "radical" to lose his job? Should it falsely depict even a Ku Klux Klan member as a "police spy" or "FBI stool pigeon" so as to get that man beaten up. perhaps killed, and thus create destructive conflict within the Klan?

No one who loves liberty can answer these questions in any way other than to say that Saxbe is right - and that the Justice Department is to be commended for revealing to the American people practices which I was denouncing (and Hoover was denying) in this column five

Hoover called me a "racist columnist" during an angry tirade over my revelations of his annual journeys up to Capitol Hill where he would convince congressmen that he deserved a bigger budget by playing for them tape recordings of bedroom goings-on involving people he disliked and wanted the congressmen to dislike

I have nothing better than contempt for the Klan, the Minutemen, the American Nazi Party. I'd consider it a blessing for this nation if they vanished tomorrow. But not if personal liberty vanished with them.

We must never have a national police force that has license to destroy either the American Nazi Party or or the Black Panther Party for what their members believe, or say, or are "prone" to do. We either convict them for what they actually do, or we leave them alone

For the first time in our history, an American President has resigned for "dirty tricks." Those Nixon abuses of power are no more sinister than those employed by the FBI at the behest of Hoover. Surely Mr. Kelley is not so insensitive as to really believe that these ventures into rotten police statism constituted the FBI's honoring its "responsibilities to the American people."

WASHINGTON - In defiance of Congress and without a whimper, the Administration has quietly given the oil industry the means of creating a costly natural gas and oil "shortage" in the next

The "shortage" last winter was used by Big Oil as an excuse to keep motorists in gas lines, homeowners shivering, prices up 50 per cent or more and oil profits even

To prevent a recurrence, Congress passed a law requiring the Federal Energy Administration to conduct a "complete and independent analysis of actual (domestic) oil and gas reserves . . .

But the FEA survey, which is supposed to give a true picture of whether there is a 'shortage." has instead been run for the benefit of the oil men, not for the benefit of the public.

Last August, the survey forms were sent out to the oil industry for suggestions, but the views of consumer advocates were not solicited. As a result, the oil companies were successful in modifying the forms pretty much to their whim.

Indeed, the FEA quietly issued a 'Justification Statement." admitting that the original reporting forms had been "modified to incorporate virtually all the suggestions" from the industry

One industry suggestion adopted by the FEA has now made the survey virtually meaningless. It would allow the oil companies to report only oil that is easy to pump out, and to ignore oil that is harder

Thus, if a well produces 500 barrels that could be recovered at $5 a barrel, but contains another 200 barrels that would be difficult to recover, the oil company need only report the first 500

What this means to the unwitting consumer, of course, is that the 200 can be withheld from the market while Big Oil cries "Shortage!" and jacks up prices accordingly. When the prices have skyrocketed again, the 200 can be drawn from the ground and sold at the new higher prices. The same principle applies for

Merry-go-round

Petroleum Institute, the industry's powerful Washington lobby. There, they can be checked before the FEA is allowed

The FEA's survey director, Dr. Daniel Rathbun, pooh-poohs the suggestion that routing the forms through the petroleum lobby is a slap in the public's face. At first. he also insisted that under-reporting is impossible to avoid.

But under questioning by my associate Jack Cloherty, Rathbun admitted that the major oil companies had data and could report how much oil remained in the ground if ordered to do so. It was only small companies that would have trouble.

Despite the gigantic loophole in his survey, Rathbun insisted the FEA was working on other means to find out how much oil is really in America

DENT'S DILEMMA: Plain-spoken Harrry Dent, the general counsel of the Republican National Committee, has been given the bitter choice of pleading guilty to a minor charge or of facing a felony indictment and a costly, painful trial.

Dent, architect of President Nixon's successful "Southern Strategy," was given the ultimatum a few days ago by Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff during secret talks in Washington. According to friends, Dent is now gloomily mulling over the "offer" in his native South Carolina

Under Ruff's proposal, Dent would plead guilty to the of "aiding and abetting" the illegal "Operation Townhouse" which raised $3 million for Republican candidates

Skating for the beginner

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Since we are rapidly approaching the iceskating season, I would like to share with you some useful tips for the beginner.

First off, it's best to learn to ice skate as a youngster. If you wait until your mid-30s you will find that fractures take a little longer to mend, and that at 200 pounds, the ice doesn't seem quite as strong

Proper lacing of your skates is most important for adequate ankle support. If your ankle doesn't have proper support you will soon find yourself skating on the edgesof your soles, which makes for sloppy Once you have mastered this; the next step is called Standing. This involves assuming an upright position on your skates without the aid of a companion. You must guard, however, against the tendency to "freeze" in this position and hesitate toplunge out into the flow of skaters, which can bear an uncanny resemblence to the Los Angeles Freeway at 5:30.

The movement of skaters around an ice rink is normally in a counter-clockwise direction. The beginner must be careful not to start out in the opposite direction. especially without full major medical beginning skater—Stopping. The novice will no doubt notice other, more advanced skaters who stop effortlessly even at high rates of speed with a twisting maneuver reminiscent of Jean Paul Kiley. This is not for the amateur

I have found what I call the guard-rail stop to be most effective. This can be executed by heading straight into the guard rail while keeping a keen eye out for splinters. Shin guards are recommended for those rinks having iron rails.

So far we have concerned ourselves only with rink skating. Pond and lagoon surfaces require other skills, such as the ability to swim with skates on and how to interpret certain ice sounds before it's too late. These may be dealt with in a future

Hospital employes, patients suffer

Tuesday the Bothwell Hospital management announced a 10 per cent reduction in hours for their personnel. The reason cited for this action was "budget difficulties.

Not only will employes of the hospital be hard hit economically, but total patient care will undoubtedly suffer drastic cutbacks. I feel this situation could have been prevented with better fiscal management at the hospital's administrative level.

Our hospital salaries are already far behind the present economy. I find my own current salary (as a registered therapeutic for better wages, we health care dietitian) 20 per cent less than that paid a newly hired bus driver on the Kansas City Metro System. The type of health care delivery system we see evidenced by this administrative action is the kind we cannot afford to have in our country. Low salaries for health care personnel, duplication of facilities. excessive frills and other such items are factors which contributed to our present rating of 33rd, as a nation, by the World Health Organization.

While most other employes are striking 411 West 18th

Big 8 football crown on line in Lincoln

KANSAS CITY (AP) -Top-ranked Oklahoma and sixth-ranked Nebraska collide Saturday in what is certain to be the biggest football explosion of the fading Big Eight Conference season.

The shootout comes off in Nebraska's corral at Lincoln. The crowd likely will surpass the Memorial Stadium record of 76,587 who watched the Sooners shoot down the Cornhuskers 17-14 two years

Favored Oklahoma is un-

The brawl at Nebraska bring together the league's top passer and total offense leader, Nebraska's Dave Humm, and the No. 1 rusher, Oklahoma's Joe Washington. Humm has a fantastic completion average of 61.9 per cent, and Washington has dazzled Sooner opponents for an average of 124.4 yards a Kansas suffered no serious injuries in last week's 45-14 loss to top-ranked Oklahoma. Fambrough says senior flanker Bruce Adams, who was sidelined for the Oklahoma game, will return to action.

The Michigan Wolverines and Ohio State Buckeyes, bullies of the Big Ten and just about everyone else, meet Saturday to settle a league championship, a Rose Bowl berth and some personal differences.

It's the biggest game of the season for these two superpowers, who love to hate each other.

The undefeated Wolverines and once-beaten Buckeyes, ranked Nos. 3 and 4 in the country and 1-2 in the Big Ten, meet in their heralded battle at Columbus, Ohio, before an expected sellout crowd of 88,000 and a national television audience of millions more.

It's a similar situation to last year, when both teams

They struggled to a 10-10 tie in 1973 and Ohio State was picked by Big Ten officials to go the Rose Bowl for the second straight year. The decision, quite naturally, outraged Michigan officials, including Coach Bo Schemblecher, who's waited a year for a return shot at the Buckeyes.

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, meanwhile, has no love for the Buckeyes' chief antagonists. He never mentions Michigan by name, but refers only to "that school up north," and refuses to buy gasoline from a filling station across the state line or even eat in a restaurant up there.

the Southern California-UCLA game. The Trojans, ranked No. 8 in the country, hope to go to the Rose Bowl for the third straight season. They've beaten the Buckeyes once and lost another time in the last two years.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 1 Oklahoma meets No. 6 Nebraska in a collision of Big Eight powers; Air Force visits No. 5 Notre Dame; No. 11 Maryland takes on Virginia; Iowa is at No. 14 Michigan State, only team to beat Ohio State this year, and Stanford plays California, the 19thranked team in the country.

Ohio State is a nine-point favorite to beat Michigan, probably because of the home-field advantage. But the Buckeyes will be in trouble defensively if Neal Colzie doesn't get well in a hurry.

If Southern Cal beats UCLA, the Pac-8 race is all over for 1974. It can still end up in a three-way tie with Southern Cal, UCLA and Stanford and the Rose Bowl representative would then have to be determined on overall record. The Trojans would then have to beat Notre Dame one week later to gain a Rose Bowl berth.

But, naturally, Southern Cal Coach John McKay would like to settle matters Satur-

"I'm not thinking about any formulas," he said. "Our answer is to win the game with UCLA. If we're not good enough to win it, then we were ranked high and met in buster will land a Rose Bowl Colzie, the key man in Ohio don't deserve to go to the

Ore. looks at one-platoon system

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) -There's a way to tackle the inflationary costs pinching the pocketbooks of university athletic departments across the country.

It's called single-platoon football, and Athletic Director Norval Ritchey of the University of Oregon has drafted a proposal that would bring about the change.

"It would basically ask the NCAA's rules committee to return us to one-platoon football," Ritchey said. "This would, first, save you many, many thousands of dollars. It also would help equalize competition."

And, he said, "It would lead to a return of player recognition by the fans. As it stands now," he said, "people don't recognize who they (players) are. What we're talking about is limited substitution."

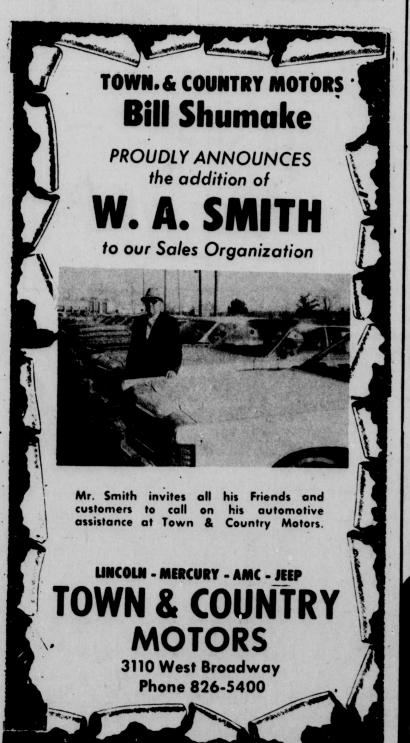

"We know of seven of the eight Pacific-8 Conference schools who favor the proposal now," Ritchey said. The lone exception is the University of Southern California, where Coach John McKay is opposed, the Oregon athletic director said.

too, favored the idea. "The only panacea I can see for this galloping inflation is a return to one-platoon football," he said, "and I'm going to fight for this at my own university, at the Pac-8 level in December and at the NCAA level in January"

"I feel we can retain the same income with oneplatoon football and also save ourselves about $200,000 annually," Barratt said.

Barratt said more and more major universities "are swinging this way. I see a snowballing effect. Even Bear Bryant of Alabama has come out publicly and said he may have to go to one-platoon

Agent claims a positive identification

LAS VEGAS. Nev. (AP) -An FBI agent testified before the Nevada Gaming Commission Thursday that he positively identified Nicholas Civella and saw him register for a room at the Dunes Hotel.

The testimony was in connection with a disputed complaint filed Sept. 16 by the Gaming Control Board, which alleges the Dunes catered to Civella, who is one of 11 men listed in Nevada's "black book." Those in the book are alleged to have ties with the underworld, and casinos which cater to any of them face loss of their license.

The complaint alleges Civella, using an alias, stayed at the hotel for two days during August and arrangements were made to provide him with free services. The board said some hotel officials knew the man was Civella.

The complaint said Civella, of Kansas City, Mo., registered as John P. Sanders with a female known as M. Guastella. The complaint asks for a fine of $50,000 against the Dunes.

Presidency is not for Mondale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale has become the second drop-out of the 1976 Democratic presidential race, leaving liberal Democrats at least temporarily without a well-known contender.

Mondale announced his withdrawal Thursday just a few hours after Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who has strong support from party regulars and organized labor, disclosed he has hired a key party organizer for his anticipated candidacy.

The Jackson recruit was Robert J. Keefe, 40-year-old executive director of the Democratic National Committee. He will become political director of the still unofficial Jackson campaign Dec. 1.

That will enable him to take charge of the Washington senator's effort at the party's Dec. 6 mini-convention in Kansas City. Candidates and potential candidates will display their wares in Kansas City for some 3,000 top Democrats, many of them likely 1976 convention dele-

Coming less than two months after the September withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Mondale's surprise decision left Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona as the most visible, current liberal candidate against Jackson when the presidential primaries begin 16 months from now.

In fact, Udall's progress in snaring support of key liberals in New Hampshire, the traditional opening primary, was reported to be one factor in Mondale's decision. However, the Minnesota senator insisted, "This is a personal decision on Mondale, too, had been considered a likely contender, ever since his Minnesota colleague, Hubert H. Humphrey, proclaimed him a future candidate as Mondale swept to re-election in 1972.

But he disclosed at his news conference that as he proceeded his doubts grew. "I found I did not have the overwhelming desire to be President which is essential for the kind of campaign that is required," Mondale said.

Kennedy said he thought "the nation is poorer for the decision he has made." Humphrey said that he had encouraged Mondale to stay in the race and that he regretted Mondale's de-

New poetry book is 'personal'

By DAN HALL

Associated Press Writer FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) Robert Penn Warren, unique among U.S. writers as winner of Pulitzer prizes for both fiction and poetry, has completed a book of poetry which he views as a career milestone.

Foster acknowledged that he originally was looking for a plan that could net some economic assistance for his financially-sagging institution when he became interested in the Elba program.

"But I never dreamed it would be this successful," he said. Big business in a bad way

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Except perhaps in terms of profits. these aren't very comfortable days for big business.

The utilities are under attack from customers, ecologists, politicians and others. The automotive companies are criticized for their pricing policies and polluting ways. The biggest railroad, the Penn Central, is being operated in bankruptcy. Some airlines are in a regulatory bind.

Health insurers know all about the troubles that bigness can bring. They are in a fight, as they view it, for their very existence, a fight that if lost might reduce them to mere clerks in a national health insurance program.

Nothing crystalizes the fight that big business is in more than the government's antitrust action against American Telephone & Telegraph, a company that serves 80 per cent of Americans and which is financially more powerful than most nations of the earth.

AT&T is the symbol. It is huge almost beyond con. prehension. It employs more than one million workers. Its assets exceed $67 billion. It has raised its net income every year but one since 1947, earning $2.95 billion last year.

Whether the attacks against big business today are based strictly in the legalities—in an effort, that is, to preserve the pre-eminence of law over individuals or corporations-will continue to be argued.

Most of the attacks, from wherever they originate - consumer, ecologist, elected representative - eventually take a legal form. But this doesn't disguise completely the likelihood that political motivation might lay at the base.

To attack big business today seems to be good politics. A good portion of the public feels it hasn't performed as effectively as it should in holding down prices or in serving the public. It is too noncompetitive. too burdened with its own bureaucracy, too self-serving, the critics says.

While many companies consider themselves marvels of managerial and technological efficiency, the public often has a different attitude, viewing them as dinosaurs possessed of ravenous, ruinous appetites and selfish disdain.

With prices rising throughout the world, many people wonder whatever became of the "economies of volume" they had read about in Economics 1. The utilities grow larger and so do their prices. The carmakers, giants of industry, raise their prices almost as often as sugar

The giants have difficulty explaining that if they must pay billions of dollars for ecologically desirable improvements, or improve their employe fringe benefits, or pay higher raw material prices they must pass some of the cost on to cus-

Rain stain won't go away

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with leaking milk cartons. I can understand an occasional one but I have been averaging one leaking one out of every four cartons. -MRS.S.N.

DEAR POLLY - I would like for Mrs. A.L. to know that I have found that wax shoe polish of the proper color does a fine job of removing scratches from furniture and puts on a nice finish. I also find this good for paneled walls and wood floors. Apply with a cloth or cotton swab and polish well with another cloth. - BERTHA.

DEAR POLLY - So many of the readers like J.N. seem plagued with that problem of pet odors. I have cured some beauties with a good STRONG solution of plain old baking soda in water. The only trick is to be sure that all the soda dissolves and that the solution sinks in as deeply as the original odor producer.

Also when coming home from the beach with sand-covered legs and feet a big problem is practically eliminated if you have along a can of baby powder. Shake a healthy amount of powder on the kids' feet and legs and you can brush the sand off in seconds and even put their shoes on. Sure helps keep the car clean. - J.L.

DEAR POLLY - To keep the children from wasting expensive precious sugar put it in a king-size shaker and let them shake it on their cereal, etc. No spilling. Less is used to say nothing of the shaker being easier for them to handle. -

DEAR POLLY - The best way I have found to get rid of a lingering odor in baby's diaper pail is to use a crystal-type toilet bowl deodorant. The pail smells nicer. This is usually less expensive than the diaper pail deodorants found at the store and that do not work as well either. This type deodorant works wonders on garbage pails. - MRS.R.L.H.

DEAR POLLY - Help a child accept wearing glasses by letting him wear EMPTY frames from a pair of child's sun glasses around the house to get used to the idea. When the real ones arrive the child will be used to wearing glasses.

Attach a pocket to the corner of your beach towel, sew a zipper to its top and it will hold all those little things needed at the beach such as oil. lotion, a little money, etc.

My last is really a peeve with those who do not vote but are always complaining about the way the country is run. -

DEAR POLLY - I have help for M.H.S. whose refrigerator shelves have rusted. Sandpaper the rust off thoroughly and then spray paint them with a rustproof paint. This works wonders. I would advise doing this painting outdoors. I find rustproof paint quite offensive. There also is no mess to clean up indoors. - E.C.B.

DEAR POLLY - Cardboard cylinders from waxed paper and paper towels make excellent mailing tubes for newspapers, magazines and other small things. Just write the address on the cylinder. - BETH.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - One night I left my sliding glass doors open. Rain came in on an end table with a lamp on it. I dried the table and then set the lamp back on it not realizing the felt on the lamp bottom was damp. The felt dye stained the table. I wonder if someone could tell me how to remove this stain? - MRS.A.H.(NEA)

Guy Farmer, chief industry negotiator, indicated Wednesday that the coal companies were unwilling to reopen negotiations. But Miller replied that "the operators have not informed us they won't go back to the bargaining table.'

"If people will allow the union and the operators to sit down, we'll get these problems resolved," he said.

Some provisions of the tentative agreement have been criticized by the rank and file and, despite the lack of detailed information about the document's contents, many have said they intend to vote against it.

Miller said the chances of ratification and an early end to the strike were being hurt by "false prophets" and rumors and "that's why I'm here."

The government has estimated that a four-week strike would cause the layoffs of at least 400,000 workers in coal-related industries.

U.S. denounces

Arab terrorism

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - The United States on Thursday declared its support of Israel's right to exist and lashed out at the Arab guerrillas' "deliberate policy of terror" and their attempt to compare it with the American

The stance was at odds with the approach to the Palestine question taken by a majority of speakers in the General Assembly debate on Palestine and with a resolution prepared by Third World countries which says nothing about the continued existence of Israel.

The resolution's approval was assured Friday, but some diplomats said it might get only 70 or 80 votes rather than the 120 hoped for by Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization. Israel says it will never negotiate with the PLO on the grounds it is a terrorist organization committed to liquidating the Jewish State.

"Certainly it must be understood by all that Israel has the right to exist as a sovereign, independent state within secure and recognized boundaries," U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said.

Last week, Arafat opened the Palestine debate at the Assembly and compared his guerrilla movement with the American Revolution.

"Those who molded our nation and fought for our freedom never succumbed to the easy excuse that the end justifies the means," Scali said.

"There are those who wish to compare the American Revolution and the many other wars of liberation of the past 20 years with indiscriminate terrorism," he said. "If there were instances during the American Revolution where innocent people suffered, there was no instance where the voluntary leadership boasted of or condoned such crimes. There were no victims, on either side, of a deliberate policy of terror.'

In Scali's prepared text, the word "brutal" was used twice, to describe "terrorism" and a "policy of terror" by Arab guerrillas. The ambassador deleted the word in delivering his statement, however.

He said the "legitimate interests" of the Palestinians should be achieved "not through new resolutions or dramatic parliamentary maneuvers. but by weaving the Palestinian interests into the give and take of the negotiating

House bill would aid mass transit systems

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress ed the only hope for passage this year of completed action Thursday on a comprehensive mass transit bill which would authorize for the first time federal subsidies for hard-pressed subway systems.

The House passed the compromise six-year, $11.8-billion mass transit package by a 288-109 vote ending two years of work on the legislation.

Members had accepted the bill for debate earlier by a 241-154 vote, with most members on the Public Works Committee opposing it in a protest of what they called the dictatorial behavior of the Senate in refusing to consider their bill passed by the House last summer.

Thursday's debate included the reading of a telegram from President Ford urging passage of the bill.

"It represents a responsible step in our efforts to reduce energy consumption and control inflation," Ford said. Majority Leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill said the compromise representmass transit assistance which he said was "desperately needed in major urban areas.

The bill provides $3.9 billion in operating subsidies but eligible cities could use their share instead for new equipment if they wished.

The other $7.9 billion would extend the current programs for mass transit capital grants to buy buses, subway cars, tracks and other items to improve mass transportation systems.

Population and density will determine the eligibility of cities for funds, in contrast to the funding formula in the earlier public works bill which had specific categories set up for cities. Local funds would have to match federal funds on a 50-50 basis for the operating subsidies. For the capital grants, the federal government would pay 80 per cent, the locals 20 per cent.

But Mr. Rockefeller, you can't just quit publishing because you had one flop. My book could put your company in the black.

"I don't know. It's not easy for a Rockefeller to have an investment that goes sour. We thought we had a sure thing with Goldberg. After all, he was a labor lawyer, a Supreme Court justice and an ambassador to the United Nations. You would have thought people would break down the bookstore doors to buy the book. Some welcome news on industrial front the way of plant closings and layoffs, Sedalia finally got some good news Wednesday with the announcement that a new tenant has been found for the idle Permaneer plant.

If all goes according to plan, and there seems to be no reason it shouldn't, the McGraw-Edison Co. expects to be manufacturing small electric-power tools in the spacious Permaneer facility come January.

The City Council's role will be to assign the plant lease to McGraw-Edison (although Permaneer would continue to stand behind the agreement). The council recently indicated its willingness to do this by approving a motion along these McGraw-Edison is a large, wellfinanced company with extensive operations in Missouri, where it is the state's third-largest employer. The Sedalia facility would be part of the company's portable appliance and tool group.

The plant's product line would be somewhat more stable than Permaneer's, whose fortunes declined along with the disastrous U.S. housing market in general

A word of thanks is due the mayor and other city and Chamber of Commerce officials who worked hard to bring McGraw-Edison and Sedalia together.

Hopefully, in the future this sort of activity will be able to be handled by a director of economic development, now that the City Council has cleared the way for the economic board to seek out a person for that position. This was another bit of welcome good news.

He should have established a public confidence that will sustain him through the long and rocky passage that

But to most Americans, Gerald Ford today still remains a question mark. He has not exhibited the capacity to take charge; nor the clarity to lay down a consistent policy line; nor the force of personality that puts his stamp upon the presidency; nor the vision to raise a banner around which a confused nation can rally.

Rather than any individual failure or success, it is this void that distinguishes the Ford presidency thus far. It must be taken. therefore, as a harbinger of failure. If he is to avoid a debacle, he will have to earn back slowly and painfully, against a miasma of doubt and skepticism, what the nation was anxious to bestow upon him freely some 100 days ago.

Yet something about the man decency, kindness, openness. unpretentiousness - and something about the circumstances that have bedeviled his debut, impell us not to write him off but to suspend our verdict while searching the debris for explanations.

Ford's first 100: no quick verdict

Truman and Lyndon Johnson to the presidency raised them up as guardians of an exalted legacy. Gerald Ford received. instead of a legacy, an albatross which Solomon himself wouldn't have known how to get from around his neck.

The rush of events the past two years has made him an anachronism. He is an Eisenhower back among us, the sort of Ike everyone likes, beaming benevolently upon the political scene. He speaks the same old words, practices, the same old politics, makes the same old compromises.

But the people have been plunged suddenly into the 1970s. The news shocks of the past two years have given them a new maturity, a new sophistication, a new soberness. The old blarney no longer impresses them; they are on a different wave length.

Still, a benign Gerald Ford goes on grasping hands, slapping backs, kissing babies; he simply has gone out of style.

He is, nevertheless, a man of great decency and strong loyalties. His closest advisers urged him to clean out the Nixon cabinet, to start his administration with a clean slate. But this violated Ford's sense of fairness. He insisted on judging each Nixon holdover by his performance, not by his past association.

The new President's advisers also warned him against pardoning Richard Nixon. This violated Ford's feelings of compassion. By extending mercy and solicitude to Nixon, Ford associated his administration with Watergate, violated most American's sense of equal justice. frustrated our hopes of getting the whole truth and diluted the object lesson to future presidents that many had hoped would be the lasting legacy of the impeachment ordeal.

And so at one stroke, he took the bloom off his month-old presidency and grimed it with some of the tarnish of the past. Yet had Ford waited only a bit and had Nixon been arrested, arraigned and then had succumbed to his illness, then the dogs of recrimination and irreconcilability would have been let loose in this country.

Whatever he did, or did not do, probably would have ended in a mess. He was in a nowin situation

Gerald Ford found himself faced, not with an unmistakable foe, but with a dilemma that might be inflation, or depression, or a fiendish combination of both, for which there is no known government remedy

Only a reckless gambler or a true visionary could have sounded forth the certain trumpet, and Ford is neither. And so he stalled for time, shifted from one foot to the other and offered half-measures that fully satisfied no one.

Unsatisfying, yes. But to have grandly mounted his horse and led his army galloping off in the wrong direction, against the wrong enemy, would have been

Give Ford his due. He has taken up the poor hand history dealt him without complaint or excuse. He has been in the main, accessible, candid and honest.

If his vision proves limited and his politics faulty, none of this will be enough. But it is enough to warrant a suspension of the rules, an extension of the honeymoon. Let's give President Ford another 100 days.

Park neighbor wants a safer lagoon

I am writing in regard to the recent drowning of little Edward Carwile. I agree completely with Mrs. Carwile that steps should be taken to make the lagoon safer. I have lived across the street from the park for the past 15 years.

We all know that adults and older children know the dangers of the water. but there is that percentage that doesn't, or doesn't use caution even when they know. The smaller children don't realize the danger, especially when they are darting about playing and having a good time. I this is only one drowning but...you should have seen children of all ages fall into the lagoon ... I've seen adults as well as children slip into the water because the

Time after time I have seen parents let their children out of their car and leave them unsupervised for hours at a time. These children are among those who need the protection of a fence or something have been there when they took the child from the water. Can we positively say that it won't happen again? With the lagoon as it is the odds are bad.

I think the people of Sedalia should stand behind Mrs. Carwile and the members of the Head Start by contacting the Park Board or circulating a petition to make sure that steps are taken to make the lagoon safe for all children.

Valuable critic of education

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - One of the wisest men in our town retired the other day, but such are the riptides of news around here that his departure passed as quietly as the falling of af a leaf on a millpond. None of the papers or broadcasting stations had a word to say about Mortimer Smith when he stepped down as executive director of the Council for Basic Education. He merits a farewell salute.

At 68, Smith ranks among the country's foremost critics of education. It is an eminence achieved more by accident than by design. He started out to be a businessman, shifted to free-lance writing, and in 1945, largely out of concern for the education of his own four children, became chairman of his regional school board in Newtown. It proved a dismaying experience. Smith perceived that basic studies were being sacrificed to "social adjustment." He packed his trenchant observations into a bestselling book. "And Madly Teach." A few years later he wrote a second book. "The Diminished Mind." In 1956, with the help of Arthur Bestor and others, he became the moving spirit behind formation of the Council for Basic Education. A year later, he was named its executive director. Last month, after 17 years in the post, he made his farewell address to the CBE board. In my own view, at least, his remarks provide a superlative statement of what education truly is all about.

"My view," said Smith, "is that two overlapping functions must be emphasized in schooling — the acquiring of basic skills and knowledge, and the development of moral sensibility.

Among basic skills and knowledge, Smith puts reading first, "not only because reading is the basis of learning and is essential for vocation, but because it is a source of pleasure and consolation for a lifetime." Children also must be taught to use their native language in speech and writing "with at least a modicum of ease and accuracy." The basic skills include "some facility in the fundamental arithmetical operations." Parents also have a right to expect that their children will be taught something of history, government, geography, the physical and natural sciences, literature. music, and painting. In Smith's view, this is the basic body of knowledge, "knowledge that can in some degree be transmitted to all save those with severe mental retardation.'

The schools' second task, to develop moral sensibility, is less easily defined. As Smith observes, some authorities believe the schools "would do well to steer clear of moral affirmation entirely," but he strongly disagrees with that view. Some moral values may be shifting; many others

"Millions of people believe in affection. in friendship, in love of country, and millions of people want some governing purpose in their lives. Millions still believe that murder, cruelty, stealing and dishonest dealing are wrong.

If teachers would at least teach simple honesty, Smith remarks, they might well prepare their pupils to become intelligent critics of government, of business, and of the press. Instruction in moral values can take many forms: "There are many fraudulent or counterfeit aspects of our private and public lives that could be discussed in social studies classes. We could begin with examination of a common human frailty, the willingness of people who would not steal from each other to steal from the telephone company

Smith's farewell address is not likely to be reprinted in professional journals. He is much too down-to-earth for them. But good principals, teachers, and school board members would benefit greatly from pursuing Smith's homely goals: basic knowledge, and moral values. Parents will find no better yardstick for measuring how well our schools succeed, and how badly

WIN AT BRIDGE

Two types of bridge swindles

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Remember the visitor to New York who, when a native offered to sell him the Brooklyn bridge, remarked, "You must take me for an idiot. The real owner has already contacted me.

You can still find him in almost any bridge game. East won the club lead with his king and tried to cash the ace. South ruffed; entered dummy with the king of trumps; led the jack of clubs and carefully discarded his eight of hearts after East played low. West was in with the queen and couldn't wait to plank down his seven of hearts. South took his ace; cashed the ace of trumps; overtook his queen of hearts with dum-my's king and got rid of his two diamonds on the jack of hearts and 10 of clubs.

Why was West trying to buy the Brooklyn Bridge?

It was all a matter of looking at that jack of hearts in dummy. Give South the ace of diamonds and small hearts, South would surely have planned to play West for the heart queen rather than try that club play. Hence West should have realized that East held the diamond ace and that South was trying a swindle.

The decision came two nights after the board was authorized at the Monday night City Council meeting to resume interviewing applicants. Complaints prompt action by Chamber

Responding to several recent complaints received from local merchants. Sedalia Chamber of Commerce executive manager Larry Melton is investigating the activities of an out-of-state firm selling advertising under the name of "Business Review

Melton reported he has been informed that ads for a shopping guide allegedly published by the company have sold to local businessmen at prices ranging from $50 to $125. The guides, the businessmen were told, were to have been distributed to all rural boxholders in Pettis and Cooper Counties. However, Melton said, the Sedalia post office has no record of such a publication having been mailed.

Also, Melton said, a check with City License Inspector Bob Brown revealed that no firm by the name of "Business Review Editions" has purchased a city license, as is required.

Many of the 58 parties represented in the publication did not authorize advertisements, Melton said. And, he added, "most of the others felt the group was misrepresenting their service."

Melton encouraged local businessmen to avoid sales commitments over the telephone and to particularly avoid making advertising arrangements via long distance calls. It is also helpful, he said, to be aware of the background of any firm soliciting

Guns, money are taken from home

A rural Dresden house was broken into Wednesday and two guns and $50 were stolen, according to the Pettis County sheriff's department.

The house is owned by Ray Combs. Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said the Combs children returned from school Wednesday afternoon and found a piggy-bank had been broken into. The family then noticed the guns and money were also missing.

The sheriff's department is still investigating the incident.

Judiciary Committee was urged by one of its members Thursday to determine the power of his family's vast wealth to advance Rockefeller's political career.

At the opening of what could be extensive hearings on Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president, Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., said this was of much more concern than whether Rockefeller might use political power to increase the family fortune.

Waldie's questioning, among the sharpest Rockefeller has faced during his confirmation hearings in both the House and Senate, produced a bristling response from Rockefeller, who said he resented the implication of the ques-in denying there was anything improper about the $20 million advanced by his family in political contributions over the 18 years of his public life.

Rockefeller said he had to rely heavily on his family because it is hard to get anyone else to contribute to his campaigns. "They say, 'Why should we contribute to a Rockefeller?" he said.
